

WILL OUR MARKETS CRASH HERE?

WORST DOWN POINT DAY SINCE SEPT 17, 2001 = -416

WORST % DOWN SINCE MARCH 24, 2003

CHINA HAD WORST DOWN DAY IN A DECADE WHICH TRIGGERED
A WORLDWIDE SELLOFF

WE THINK FEB 28 WILL BE WORSE THAN 27!

SATURN OPPOSES NEPTUNE ON NYC HORIZON AT NYSE CLOSING MOMENT (4PM-EST) WEDNESDAY

BUT THAT'S NOT ALL – As the advertisements say.
MARCH 3 CONTAINS A LUNAR ECLIPSE & A SATURN/NEPTUNE
OPPOSITION IN APPARENT RIGHT ASCENSION (as astronomers measure sky)

These Saturn/Neptune contacts have developed a severe record of market declines, some of them catastrophic! The Low Day of 1980 (March 27) was a Saturn/Neptune Square (90 deg). That was the day that Bache & Co. sold out the Hunt brothers' stocks to pay for their margin calls from Silver losses.

A semi-square between these two may have precipitated a crisis in the Mexican Peso on December 20, 1994.

A conjunction of Saturn & Neptune, opposed by Jupiter on 13-14 October, 1989, coincided with massive bankruptcy of the Soviet Union and timed the fall of the Berlin Wall!

There was a Saturn/Neptune trine (120 deg. Aspect) accompanied the Crash of 1929!

We have also been writing for many months that our Mars/Uranus Crash Cycle would be active from August 13, 2006 to March 27, 2007. Therefore, we remain in the Time Band for the possibility of much worse before the end of next month!

Let us be clear – That does not HAVE to happen – But it is more probable until then. However, the multiplication of energies including two eclipses and a Retrograde Mercury, increases the likelihood of a discontinuous event in the very near future.

From a purely fundamental standpoint, unpleasant surprises are more probable when major stock indices are yielding only 1.8%-2.2% in dividends, as they are now. In addition, the Real Estate Bubble has begun to burst, and things are much worse than generally published in financial circles, at least those commonly familiar to the general mass of investors.

In answer to the question posed in our headline, - AN UNQUALIFIED MAYBE!